

Chairman's Pen

My dear fellow exporters,

After a long gap of 9 years, India is the Partner country at the Hannover Fair from April 13-17, 2015, the world's premier technological event. The Prime Minister of India, Mr Narendra Modi and the German Chancellor, Dr Angela Merkel will inaugurate the Fair. With vast experience of setting up full-fledged exhibitions globally, your Council has been once again entrusted with the charge of organizing the Indian Pavilion at Hannover Messe. This also depicts the strategic importance of Indian engineering sector on the global arena and the new initiatives of the present Government.

With a contingent of over 300 companies, Public sector undertakings, State corporations, SMEs, Research institutes, the Indian contingent will be represented by a diverse range of engineering and related sectors: Automobiles, Automobile Components, Aviation, Biotechnology, Chemicals, Defence Manufacturing, Electrical Machinery, Electronic Systems, IT and BPM, Railways, Renewable Energy and Space.

I am confident that the fair will provide immense value to the exhibitors, delegates and visitors during the show. Apart from the business summit, seminars on electrical and electronics, motion drive and automation, workshops on smart cities in India, Skill India, Renewable energy and Digital India will also be organized concurrently with the event.

I wish the fair all the success.

Yours sincerely,

Anupam Shah
